Additional Information Regarding Naming a Beneficiary:

- If you should die without naming a beneficiary and there is a lump sum Death Benefit payable, it will be paid to the first of those who survive you in the following order: your spouse; your surviving children and descendants of your deceased children; your parents; your brothers and sisters. If none of these survive you, the Death Benefit will be paid to the administrator or executor of your estate, unless payable under WI Stat. 109.03(3) or 867.01 through 867.03.
- If you are married, your beneficiary for any Pre-Retirement Survivor Benefit that may be payable is automatically your surviving spouse. If you are not married and die without designating a Pre-Retirement Survivor beneficiary, any benefit payable will go to the person(s) you named as your Death Benefit beneficiary(ies). If you have not named a Death Benefit beneficiary(ies), or your named beneficiary(ies) pre-deceases you, the Survivor Benefit will be paid to the first of those who survive you in the following order: your surviving children and descendants of your deceased children; your parents; your brothers and sisters. If none of these survive you, the Death Benefit will be paid to the administrator or executor of your estate, unless payable under WI Stat. 109.03(3) or 867.01 through 867.03.
- If your spouse is named as your Death Benefit or Pre-Retirement Survivor beneficiary, and you divorce, the beneficiary designation is void on the date of divorce. If you want your ex-spouse to remain as beneficiary, a new Pension Fund Registration Form must be completed after the divorce to re-designate your ex-spouse as your beneficiary for Death Benefits or Pre-Retirement Survivor Benefits.
- You may designate your Estate or a Trust as your beneficiary. Indicate "My Estate" or "John Doe, Irrevocable Trust dated MM/DD/YYYY" as the beneficiary.
